CONSIDERATION MAY LATER BE GIVEN TO RELIEF MEASURES

Renewed Efforts to Enact Relief Legislation May Be Made

TO ADJOURN TODAY

Most of Business of House Ended Yesterday; Much Bill Killing

By William B. Brown
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—With the stage set for an early adjournment, Pennsylvania's legislators were to quit the Capitol finally today, bringing to a conclusion a seven weeks' extraordinary session generally conceded to have failed in its purpose to provide substantial relief for the State's more than 950,000 unemployed.

As the session drifted to its finale, the lone developments of interest were reports that the lawmakers will be summoned again to Harrisburg three months hence when renewed efforts would be made to enact relief legislation. No one would vouch for the story officially, though numerous legislators believed that Gov. Gifford Pinchot would send out another call if he can find a sufficient number of leaders who will share the responsibility.

Only two bills, the Scott and McClure measures providing for the erection of a new tuberculosis hospital remained to be acted upon finally in the House, while the Senate had prepared for passage four bills to aid the property owner who is unable to pay his taxes promptly.

Among these measures in the senior branch, one would postpone sheriff's sales for a year for tax delinquencies. It is sponsored by Rep. D. Glenn Moore, Washington County, and is similar to the bill of Senator Bertram G. Frazier, Philadelphia, which was vetoed last week because it could not become effective before next September 1. The Moore bill would become effective upon approval by the Governor.

Most of the business of the House was ended late yesterday and members were treated to one of the smoothest bits of bill-killing witnessed in recent years. The Clark bill, one of the measures which it was agreed should be passed before final adjournment, was passed on second reading early in the day. The measure provided that the state should take over and maintain the Embreeville Hospital for the Insane in Chester County.

Late yesterday, Representative Sowers, Philadelphia, moved that the vote by which it was passed on second reading be reconsidered so that the bill could be amended so as to include the Byberry Hospital in Philadelphia. Some objection was registered but sufficient votes were mustered to reconsider the vote. Sowers explained that during the regular 1931 session Governor Pinchot vetoed a bill to take over the Byberry Hospital and that he now thought that in view of the attitude of the Legislature in being willing to have the State take over the Chester County institution that the Byberry institution should be included.

Unwittingly the House agreed to the various amendments and then it was re-passed on second reading and prepared for final passage today. Sowers then moved that the bill be sent to the House appropriations committee for study. The motion was carried.

Senator Clark, Chester, who was in the House at the time, immediately lost all hope of seeing the State take over the Embreeville institution and said privately that the cause was lost. It is understood that sufficient money is not available to take over the Byberry Hospital and inasmuch as the Governor could not act on only the part of the bill applying to the Embreeville Hospital the bill would have to be vetoed.

The measure will die in committee when the gavel drops ending the session today.

Ciotti—Dec 30—Galley FIVE
ADD CONSIDERATION

Another futile effort to get the Spangler resolution providing for salary cuts on Capitol Hill adopted by the Legislature failed dismally. Representative Spangler, York, sponsor of the bill had asked Rep. D. Glenn Moore, Washington, who voted against the resolution originally, to move for reconsideration of the vote.

The motion was made by Moore and then Spangler explained that in its original form it provided for a five per cent decrease for employees earning less than $2,000 and a ten per cent cut for those earning more than $2,000. Department heads, he stated, would be asked to voluntarily accept decreases. In seeking reconsideration Spangler said that he would amend the resolution so that only employees earning over $2,000 would be cut.

Mr. and Mrs. Yenny, of Palmyra and Wildwood, N. J., were holiday visitors of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Linton Martin, of Radcliffe street.

Sue Husband of Woman For Accident Damages

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 30.—Stanley S. Paist, his wife, Gertrude, and their eleven year old son, of Glenside, this week filed suit seeking $1795 damages against T. B. Keyser, of Kulpsville, as the result of injuries suffered when their automobiles collided head-on on the Edison bridge on October 1 last. It was learned after the suit was filed in the Prothonotary's office here.

Mrs. Keyser, the suit avers, was approaching the bridge and made the turn too wide, sideswiped the Paist car, and damaged it to the extent of $145.

The suit, which was prepared in the office of Thomas Ross, also claims that Wistar B. Paist, a minor, was taken to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, where his hospital bill amounted to $33. He claims damages amounting to $500, while his parents' claim $200 in their own son's behalf.

Alleging that she suffered a broken ankle, shocks and bruises, Mrs. Paist hopes to recover damages amounting to $500. For repairs to his car, which amounted to $145, and the incapacity of his wife and child, Mr. Paist is seeking $200. He claims the sum of $250 for the depreciation of his car.

The defendant, Mrs. Keyser, is charged with driving at excessive speed and not having her car under control when approaching the curve on the bridge.

FINANCIAL LEADERS SEE RISING TIDE

Believe Year is Closing With Greatly Improved Confidence

EXPANSION IN 1932

By W. S. Cousins
(L. N. S. Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—American industrial and financial leaders at the year-end have convincing evidence that the depression of 1931 is slowly but surely giving place to a rising tide of industrial recovery that will expand as the new year progresses.

Despite the set-back in the security markets which followed in the wake of the early November recovery, there has already been a sizable upturn in the market values of wheat, corn, cotton textile goods and other commodities. Millions of dollars in new buying power have accrued to farmers and other producers of raw and manufactured materials, while the fading equities in securities held by investors have to some extent been restored.

Revolving confidence in the future of this great country, its industries, its currency and its industrial systems has been reflected in the cessation of money hoarding, which for a time threatened dire results for the country.

That is why Wall Street and other financial centers regard with confidence the outlook for more prosperous conditions during 1932. Business depressions are no new phenomena in our financial and industrial history. This country has faced them and conquered them in past periods, and to-day her resources are greater than at any corresponding period in the business cycle. Her recuperative powers are equal to any emergency, and have already shown their worth in paving the way for a rebound in steel, text.

EXPLOSION FATALLY HURTS P. O. EMPLOYEES

Easton, Dec. 30.—Two postal employees were probably fatally hurt and three others injured seriously shortly after 9 o'clock today when a bomb exploded with terrific roar in the Easton postoffice at 2nd and Ferry streets.

The men were examining one of six small packages left for mailing by two men a few minutes before when the infernal machine exploded.

The blast turned the southeast section of the postoffice into a shambles and aroused the entire business district.

The two clerks, more seriously injured, were John Workheiser and Charles Houser. Their arms were blown off and their bodies badly mangled. Physicians held little hope for their recovery. The others injured will recover, but will probably be mangled for life.

CONFERENCE TO CONVEY

London, England, Dec. 30.—The European conference on war debts and reparations will convene January 20 at Lausanne, Switzerland. It was officially announced today. The conference first had been set tentatively for January 18th at The Hague.

GANGSTER SHOT

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Abe Cooper who mixed small time gambling operations with small time politics was taken for a gangland ride today. His body, riddled with seven .45 calibre slugs, was found sprawled beside the road in Loran township. A short time before the body was discovered State police said they saw an antiquated sedan speeding along Wolf road.

DAWES COMING HOME

London, England, Dec. 30.—American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes left London today to return home to the United States. His trip to the United States supposedly is being made to confer with President Hoover on the international debt situation.

ROME BUILDING COLLAPSES

Rome, Italy, Dec. 30.—At least seven persons lost their lives today in the collapse of a seven-story building at Cornegino, near Genoa. The bodies of the seven victims were recovered shortly after the accident and others were believed buried in the debris. Thirty were injured.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL VICTIM

Newark, N. J., Dec. 30.—Football claimed still another victim, the 15th in the year. He was Nicholas Scione, 18, who died in a hospital here after suffering 14 months from injuries received in a gridiron game while he was attending St. Benedict's Preparatory School. Five blood transfusions proved futile.

SUPREME COURT JUDGE FOUND DEAD IN BED

Justice Emory A. Walling Succumbs at Age of 77 Years

JUDGE FOR 15 YEARS

ERIE, Dec. 30.—Justice Emory A. Walling, second ranking member of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, was found dead in bed at his home this morning by members of his family. Death of the prominent jurist, who was 77 years old, came as a shock to relatives and friends as he had been in the best of health, members of the family said, and was in good spirits when he retired last night.

Members of the family went to Justice Walling's bedroom when he failed to appear at the usual time this morning, shortly after 8 o'clock, and found the jurist dead in bed. Physicians who were summoned immediately said he had been dead about eight hours and that death came in his sleep.

Justice Walling had been a member of the high court for 15 years. He was named to the Supreme Court by Governor Martin Brumbaugh on January 3, 1916, and before, was President Judge of Erie County for 15 years. He had served as State Senator from Erie district from 1885 to 1889, and was district attorney of Erie county from 1882 to 1885. A Republican, he was active in party circles in Erie county, where he was born on a farm in Green Township, July 11, 1854.

Crashed to Death

GIFT OF PEASANT LAD CAUSES CHIMES TO RING

Pageant Directed by Miss Cornell, Ivyland, Witnessed by Travel Club

ELABORATE COSTUMES

The sincere, childish offering of a peasant boy was responded to by the ringing of the cathedral chimes, after costly and royal gifts had failed to bring about the miracle on the anniversary of the coming of the Christ Child, as a story in pageant form was unfolded in St. James' parish house, last evening.

"Why the Chimes Rang" was the title of the presentation, staged before members of the Travel Club and their guests on the occasion of the annual Christmas party.

In vain did the peasants of the surrounding countryside, and the wealthy and royal folk wait for the chimes to miraculously and joyously ring forth as each gift was presented to the priest at the altar. Each time the donor waited, certain that through his or her gift the miracle would be wrought, but each time the gift, imperfect, failed to please and the chimes did not ring.

At last Holgar, the elder son of a poor cottage-dweller of the woodland section, made his way up the great cathedral aisle, and hesitantly placed his meagre offering of a few pennies in the receptacle held by the priest. He was late; the wealthy had come before him with their costly gifts. Holgar had been detained when an aged woman appeared at his cottage door in need of food, rest and warmth. The lad conscientiously refused to accompany his uncle and younger brother to the city's cathedral, which visit he had so long planned for, all having a desire to witness the working of the miracle, when the chimes should peal forth at the presentation of the perfect, sacrificial gift.

The lad knelt before the altar while the priest held his gift high above the cross. Organ music suddenly ceased as the chimes pealed forth their glad notes. To the lad an angel appeared, and in his ears rang the words, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

Those impersonating the main characters in the pageant were: Holgar, Teddy Megargee; priest, Rev. George E. Boswell; Oriental merchant with his priceless silks, Dr. Charles Peet; a man of wealth with his offering of a chest of gold, Emil Metzger; a princess with her presentation of a rope of costly pearls, Miss Elizabeth Runyan; a writer with his gift of a scroll, Anthony Burton; a beautiful girl with flowers as an offering, Janice Wagner; courier with his sacrifice of a jeweled sword, Ralph Bilderback; a queen (Continued on Page 4)

Santa Claus arrived during the evening, and distributed candies and gifts from his large sack.

VESSEL SEIZED NEAR MORRISVILLE BY AUTHORITIES

95-Foot Craft and Its Cargo of Liquors Taken By Officers

ARREST FIVE MEN

Cargo Estimated in Value at $150,000; Hearing Today

Customs men and Federal prohibition agents are in charge of a 95-foot vessel seized yesterday in the Delaware River, three miles below Morrisville. The five men comprising the crew are in custody in Philadelphia and will be given a hearing today before U. S. Commissioner.

Corporal Stewart, Morrisville State Police, who along with New Jersey State Police, made the raid, said that the crew gave their names as follows: Harry Kline, Albert Johnson, Robert Jones, Joseph Springard and Virgil Cummings.

The powered oyster schooner was seized off Biles Island and its cargo is estimated at $150,000. It consisted of choice liquors and is believed to have been bound for the old Lator street wharf, Trenton, where it is said a cargo of liquor was unloaded three nights ago and carted away in automobiles.

The boat arrived off the island some time Monday night and the Morrisville State Police received an anonymous tip of its presence in the river.

Corporal John Stewart and Trooper Farrell, of the Morrisville State Police, and Sergeants Haussling, McCroskey and Zapolsky, of the New Jersey State Police Headquarters, secured a launch later in the morning, seized the boat and arrested the crew of five men.

As the launch neared the rum boat Sergeant Zapolsky waved to one of the crew and the latter called: "What is the matter?"

"I am stuck," the State trooper replied, whereupon the member of the rum crew helped him aboard. The other troopers quickly followed and the crew was nabbed.

One of the members said he was Joseph Springard, of Lambertson street, Trenton, N. J. The captain is Ziegler Cummons, of Leipsic, Delaware, and the others, who hail from Philadelphia, gave their names as Harry Kline, Albert Johnson and Robert Jones.

State Police notified Government authorities and the crew was turned over to prohibition agents. The prisoners were taken to Philadelphia last night. The schooner, the William H. Rawles, a single master powered by a marine engine, is registered from Leipsic, Del. It carried about 1,200 sacks of high grade rye whiskey, champagne and cognac, each containing 21 pint bottles. Some of it was piled on the deck apparently for quick unloading.

The capture yesterday was the second important haul made on a boat on the river during the past few months. Some time ago State troopers captured below Bordentown a fishing trawler loaded to the gunwales with valuable Bacardi rum from Cuba.

Some time ago troopers and Federal agents made a raid on Biles Island and found a gigantic still in operation.

THE OLD FALLACY

In a radio address the Honorable Tom Connally, United States Senator from Texas, made this declaration:

"We cannot sell our goods abroad unless we also buy. When we refuse to buy foreign goods they refuse to buy ours."

On the same day there appeared, in the Baltimore Sun, a Democratic newspaper, the following statement:

"During the past six years the Soviet Union has spent $6 for American goods for every dollar's worth of goods it sold in the United States."

It appears, therefore, that so far as Russia is concerned we can sell goods abroad whether we buy them or not.

But Russia is not the only country which buys in the United States far in excess of its sales to the United States. In the fiscal year 1929 British South Africa sold in the United States only 9.6 million dollars' worth of goods, but she bought in our markets 63.7 million dollars' worth of goods. Many other similar instances could be cited. Indeed, on the average all countries with which we trade must buy more from us than we buy from them because we have enjoyed a favorable balance of trade every year since 1843 ranging all the way from two millions to two billions of dollars a year.

So once more the Democratic fiction, put onto the air by Senator Connally, that the Hawley-Smoot tariff law is wrecking our foreign trade because "other nations will not buy from us unless we buy from them" is refuted by official figures.

THE NATIONAL GAME

The story of the remarkable tournament in New York, between four masters of the game of contract bridge, stirs the ambition of many to excel in this game. Those who wish to learn might as well realize that to win any special distinction, they must study its principles as they would a school or college lesson. Bridge is not a primary school pastime.

Players who cultivate their memories so they remember what bids have been made and what cards have been played, and who master the main principles of the game, will be superior to the average.

They need not merely to know the principles of the game, but they should be able to apply them as soon as they glance at their cards, and hear the various bids made. Bridge is a speedy sport. Players who delay, hesitate, and ponder, are not popular and get few invitations.

As an eye-opener matrimony is well up in the lists.

"The world do move" but not at all times in the right direction.

Many persons would be better off if they did put off something until tomorrow.

The idea that the world owes every man a living has put many men in the poor house.

It is not fair to blame the weather bureau for the weather, but only for the predictions.

The average politician feels the pulse of the people, but he usually has some nostrum to prescribe.

PLAY AT ST. MARY'S SEEN BY MANY WHO RESIDE IN BRISTOL

Students From This Borough Are Members of The Choir

A group of Bristolians, which included Rev. and Mrs. George E. Boswell, of Radcliffe street; Mrs. J. A. Willaman, of Fairview Lane; Mrs. Charles Peet, of West Circle, and Mrs. Edgar N. Gott, of Pine Grove, attended the holiday party at St. Mary's School, Burlington, N. J., where a number of Bristol girls are students. The chapel and foyer of the school were beautifully decorated with Christmas greens. A "Mystery Play," depicting the Annunciation, the Shepherds, the Nativity and the Coming of the Magi, took place.

The children interpreting the parts were beautifully costumed, and the remainder of the students, garbed in white, formed the choir. The local girls, Anne Ritter, Emily and Charlotte Landreth, Stephanie Gott, Dorothy Young, Lily Gorton and Dorothy and Virginia Boswell, who are members of the school, were in the choir. The organist of St. Mary's School presided at the organ.

Following the play, a turkey dinner was held, and the students later grouped about the fireside, when stories were told by Miss Spurr, principal of the school.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION

All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Bristol Courier style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

Errors in advertising should be reported immediately. The Bristol Courier will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

Advertising ordered for irregular insertions takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. Count five average words to the line. An average word contains six letters.

Charged ads will be received by telephone, and if paid at the Bristol Courier office within seven days from the first day of insertion, cash rates will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three or six times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared, and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Special rates for yearly advertising upon request.

Careful attention given to mail orders.

who gave her jeweled crown, Mrs. Charles Peet, a woman of wealth with her offering of gems, Mrs. Park Wetherill, the country's king who presented his crown at the altar, Russell Burton; angel, Miss Doris Johns.

Others in the company participating included a choir, peasants, altar boys, attendants of the royal folks, Mrs. Marburg D. Wengley, pianist, furnished the instrumental accompaniment.

The pageant was directed by Miss Cornell, of Ivyland, who also acted as reader. The splendid acting, the setting for the cathedral altar, gorgeous and colorful costumes, reading parts and music, elicited many congratulatory remarks, and furnished a most excellent program of entertainment.

Miss Cornell also gave two individual readings.

Mrs. Horace H. Burton, president of the club, who welcomed the gathering last evening, presented Mrs. Frank Lehman, chairman of the club house committee. In rhyme, Mrs. Lehman presented the club members' gift for their home, a floor lamp. Refreshments were served.

ties, building construction and other industries from the October operating rates.

The depression of 1931 was not wholly a matter of supply and demand in the basic commodities. Many other factors were involved, but none so deadly as the loss of confidence and the drop in morale of millions of investors and bank depositors which led eventually to the dumping of securities on the market and the withdrawal of money from the banks. Hoarding had gone a long way before its harmful effects were recognized and pointed out by influential leaders of business and Administration officials.

President Hoover's appeal to investors of this type, combined with the prompt carrying out of his proposed plan for a gigantic credit corporation to thaw out frozen credits and strengthen the banking situation, and wage situation: thawing out of frozen credits, particularly in real estate loans; credit expansion through the reserve banks and other agencies; balancing the Federal budget; taxation; tariffs; unemployment; commodity prices and the restoration of values in the bond market.

In the financial centers the effects were also salutary in easing the strain of money withdrawals from the big commercial banks in favor of the safety deposit boxes and chimney-corner banks of various types. It is almost unbelievable the extent to which otherwise sensible men and women gave way to their fears in demanding the full payment of their deposits in the commercial banks for no other purpose than to hide the money in depositories of various kinds, some no more secure than a stocking in the back-yard. Happily, the stage of hysteria in money hoarding has passed.

Leadership from business depression to recovery should logically be furnished by the "big three" of steel, automobiling, automobile production and building construction. These industries are closely inter-related, the motor and building trades, with the railroads, constituting the largest users of finished steel.

From a low of 27 per cent of capacity output in October, the steel mills have gradually been speeded up to 31 per cent of capacity, without as yet feeling the influx of automobile buying orders. Though the year-end may see a slight reaction in steel volume, it is unlikely that the October low record of 27 per cent of operating capacity will be duplicated for a long time to come.

After the usual September-October shut-downs, the automobile manufacturers opened their doors to display a new line of attractive new models, presenting a number of new mechanical devices which add greatly to the pleasure of riding. The January schedule calls for 700,000 to 900,000 new cars, more than half of which will probably be needed as replacements for worn-out machines. Handicaps to the financing of new residence building are gradually being removed, and a sport in construction is awaited in important sections of the country.

The year 1932 will inherit a number of intricate problems and the rapidity of the business recovery will depend in large degree upon the prompt and effective solution of these problems. In brief, they include: War debts; reparations; the railroad freight rate

With commendable skill and courage, American leaders of finance, industry and legislation have already succeeded in removing a number of the barricades from the road to prosperity. They will continue their efforts undaunted in the year that is to come.

Is the "Flying Wedge" Doomed?
By HARDIN BURNLEY

WHAT CAUSED ALL THE FATALITIES OF THE PAST GRID SEASON? -- WAS IT THE "FLYING WEDGE", BAD TACKLING, OR THE HEAVY SCHEDULES--

DEATH

THE FLYING WEDGE—SEVERAL BLOCKERS HIT ONE TACKLER

SPORT BUG—

BURNLEY 12-28

CONCERNING the avalanche of fatal injuries which marred the 1931 football season, reams of copy have been written. Coaches, professors, ministers of the gospel and fans have joined with sports writers in attempting to lay a finger on the cause. Forty gridiron deaths over a period of less than three months have menaced King Football's very existence. It is widely felt that should 1932 produce any such series of catastrophes as the deaths of Sheridan, Murphy and the rest, all of the expensive stadia from coast to coast might be closed by sheer force of public opinion.

And this in spite of the fact that most of the deaths occurred in the ranks of boys of high school age or under. Some boys were hit by automobiles while playing football on the streets. Yet they were classed as "gridiron casualties."

If the game itself is all right, as is nearly universally admitted, what are its most dangerous features? What should be abolished? What should be added?

Hunk Anderson has said that faulty blocking is responsible for countless injuries. In this he is backed up by Gil Dobie of Cornell, who would like to have a squad of great blockers, but doesn't dare to train them. "You can teach only so much blocking in a limited time," says Gloomy Gil, "because it is better to have only fair blockers in a game than great blockers in a hospital."

Fielding Yost blames bad tackling. "Too many tackle with their heads down in place of up," the Big Ten veteran maintains. "The neck should be bent backward, not bowed downward."

Some lay football's woes to poor physical condition of the players, combined with individual inexperience.

But the majority of coaches, led by Major Frank Cavanaugh of Fordham, declare persistently that the flying wedge, which crept back into football last season after an absence of more than a quarter-century, is the fatal factor. "Abolish the flying wedge and save the game." That is the slogan. It is written here simply as a matter of record. It will be headline material later, when the coaches get together for a revision of the rules.

The flying wedge, especially from kickoff, where it is most effective, is just about the oldest play in football. For sheer power, it is the most logical one. One player receives the ball. Instead of running straight ahead at top speed, he hesitates a moment to allow his teammates to collect in V-shaped formation in front of him. Then the whole mass starts running, the lad with the ball in the midst of the V. Eleven men cannot mass themselves at the point of this human tornado. The result is that one or two brave souls must hurl themselves against the advancing eleven—and take their chances. If the wedge has gained considerable momentum, it takes no particular genius to estimate how it feels to stop it.

Armies used the wedge formation many centuries ago with great success. It is an approved aerial maneuver today. It's a grand old play—in wartime—but it's a little rough—just a trifle too rough perhaps—for the gridiron. It probably will be abolished.
